

Tré Wright Executive Coach & Advisor

Los Angeles, CA
866-601-3614
info@ariacx.com

Tré Wright's leadership spans over 20 years, including a pivotal 15 years at Netflix, where they played a crucial role in the company's transformation into a global leader in streaming entertainment.

Specializing in strategic HR initiatives, organizational change, and team development, Tré's experience across the tech, media, and entertainment sectors gives them a deep understanding of what drives effective leadership and organizational success.

As an executive coach, Tré works closely with leaders to tailor strategies that enhance their personal effectiveness and leadership skills. Beyond individual coaching, they advise organizations on developing high-performance teams and cultivating inclusive workplace cultures. This comprehensive approach prepares leaders and organizations to navigate challenges and capitalize on future opportunities.

Tré actively serves on boards as an advisor and trustee, offering strategic guidance to enhance growth and inclusivity for startups and educational institutions. They hold a Bachelor of Arts in International Relations from Florida State University, enriching their global and social dynamics perspective.